Sue Heusing Is Credit Professional Of The Year

The International Award-Credit Professional of the Year was won by Sue Heusing of the South Suburban Chicago Club of CWI: Credit Professionals at the International Conference in Maui, Hawaii, July 3, 1988.

The Credit Professional of the Year Award is the most prestigious award given by CWI:CP. It is given each year to a member whose work, for the association and for the credit industry, has been outstanding.

A member with perfect attendance for 18 years, Heusing has been certified a Consumer Credit Executive and has many editorial submissions in her accomplishments for both the district and the international organizations. An educational certificate from the current education manual is necessary as well as membership assistance, extension efforts, promotion of credit professionals, and community credit activities are required to win. She is also serving on the education committee of International Credit Assn. (ICA) and is presently reviewing material to be distributed to high school students for consumer economics classes.

As Credit Manager of the Midwest Division of the Baker and Taylor Company in Momence, Heusing handles the accounts receivable and credit departments for the largest of Baker and Taylors divisions.
